Tech it as read!

Peninsula hosting of Euro expo confirms it as major digital hub

TECHNOLOGICAL experts from cutting edge firms around Europe have chosen Greenwich for a major expo of digital innovations.

Around 10,000 'techies' will come to Greenwich Peninsula next month for the huge technology festival.

The area is fast becoming the destination for digital businesses of all sizes keen to set up alongside Ravensbourne - the prestigious digital and design university college. Hosting this major industry event cements the peninsula's growing status as a premier digital enterprise district.

The festival, called Campus Party, runs from September 2 to 7 at The O2 arena. It will provide an opportunity for both local firms and students to find out more about what's happening in the digital world.

Sponsored by Telefonica, there will be more than 500 hours of attractions for visitors, with conferences, workshops, competitions and activities spread over 20 key themes.

The event is designed for businesses wanting to move in the digital world or who need to solve a technology problem, and people who want to build their digital skills or looking for jobs.

Attendees will include developers, gamers, IT employees, entrepreneurs, film makers and DJs.

VIP visitors are set to include the legendary Vint Cerf, who helped design the internet.

It's the first time that the important industry gathering has come to London. The decision is an important boost for the peninsula, where world-renowned technology firm Cisco has signed a major

Fed up of inconsiderate drivers blocking my driveway

I WOULD like to highlight the practice of parking across other people's driveways. It is illegal to park across drop kerbs, but still people insist on doing it. The problem is particularly bad where I live. Some people have four or five cars, and instead of parking across their own drives they will park across someone else's. Some of them say, "Oh it's alright, you can knock on doors and ask the person to move it," but I don't want to have to do that, and I shouldn't have to. I contacted Transport for London and they confirmed it is illegal, and cars doing so risk being towed if reported and the owner cannot be traced. People who are doing it should be more considerate.

Christine Harling, Eltham

● SORRY to hear about the problems you've been having. You are right to highlight the fact that it is both inconsiderate and an offence to park across a driveway without the owner's agreement. The council's parking team is able to respond to individual requests for enforcement in cases where residents' driveways are obstructed. Residents should telephone 020 8921 4339 in the first instance.

Crossrail: can we pay with Oyster?

IT'S great news that Woolwich Arsenal along with Abbey Wood will also have a Crossrail station. However, I was wondering whether GT knows anything at all about the proposed fare structure? Will Crossrail be part of the Oyster PAYG system or will we have to pay a premium to travel on it? Let's hope that it will be affordable for all local residents.

Emily Jones, Abbey Wood

● TFL replies: "Crossrail will be fully integrated as part of the TfL network providing a fast, frequent service linking the east and west and relieving congestion on some of the busiest Tube lines. Crossrail fares will be part of the TfL fares structure and incorporated into Oyster PAYG and the Travelcard. Exact fares will be confirmed and publicised closer to opening.

What are full costs of identity thief's fraud?

WITH reference to your story '16 months for identity thief' on July 30, we are told that this woman has defrauded the state out of £154,000, but what about the cost of the investigators, the police, the courts and all the other integral costs of bringing this case? She will probably serve eight months or less at further cost to the state. Has this woman ever been in gainful employment, will she continue to be given benefits? Has her national insurance number been tagged so that all her future income is reduced to at least pay back some of this theft and its costs? This action was cool and calculated. She didn't over-claim by accident and therefore should be prepared to suffer financially for the rest of her life. Can we be told the real cost of this crime and what order was given to pay back at least some of the cost of her illegal actions?

Andrew Bothwell, Abbey Wood

● UNFORTUNATELY the investigation of any crime costs money and sentencing policy is set by the government. However, in this case, had the investigation not taken place, this perpetrator would have continued to defraud public funds therefore the overall loss to the public purse would have been substantially greater. Please be assured that if there were any assets, the royal borough would have instigated action under the Proceeds of Crime to ensure that she does not hold onto the rewards of her criminal activity.

Off the blocks!

Race is on to send athletes to Rio

by Dick Townsend-Smith

THE race is on to prepare the next team of Greenwich athletes for Rio 2016.

A new fundraising drive has been launched by Greenwich Starting Blocks, the charity launched by the royal borough to help local people's sporting dreams come true.

The aim is to build on the successes of last year's Olympic and Paralympic stars who were supported by the trust.

And with the next Games in Rio less than five years away, fundraisers are off the blocks to prepare the next generation of local heroes.

The Starting Blocks stars so far have included Gemma Gibbons, who won the Olympic silver medal for judo, Zoe Smith, who smashed the GB weightlifting record, and Andy Barrow, who competed in the wheelchair rugby as part of the Paralympic GB team.

Two of the first athletes to receive funding were Zoe and Gemma who are now Starting Blocks Ambassadors along with Andy, sprinters David Bolarinwa and Jeffrey Lawal-Balogun, and fencer Jonathan 'JJ' Webb. Zoe said getting funding for her first proper weightlifting boots at just 15 was a great start.

Wheelchair rugby player Andy said the support from Starting Blocks was, "the difference between being a good athlete and being an elite athlete".

The trust has supported scores of young athletes by awarding them bursaries to help them pay for their training, travelling and competing, since it was launched in 2006.

Athletes are assessed against strict criteria and are placed in one of four categories - ambassador, talent, development and regional - according to their current ranking and level of competition.

New Eltham fencer Jonathan 'JJ' Webb, is aiming to take gold at the 2020 Olympic Games, and is looking forward to the new season next month after passing a rigorous selection process for the British Fencing World Class Performance Programme.

He told GT: "This is a big recognition and a big step towards my Olympic ambitions. Along with other things my international competitions are likely to increase, and the extra financial support from Starting Blocks will help with the funding of the competitions. It's great for young athletes to know that if they work hard the support is there."

His dad Steve added: "Starting Blocks have helped us build JJ's profile which has been crucial in keeping him recognised as one of Britain's up and coming fencing talents."

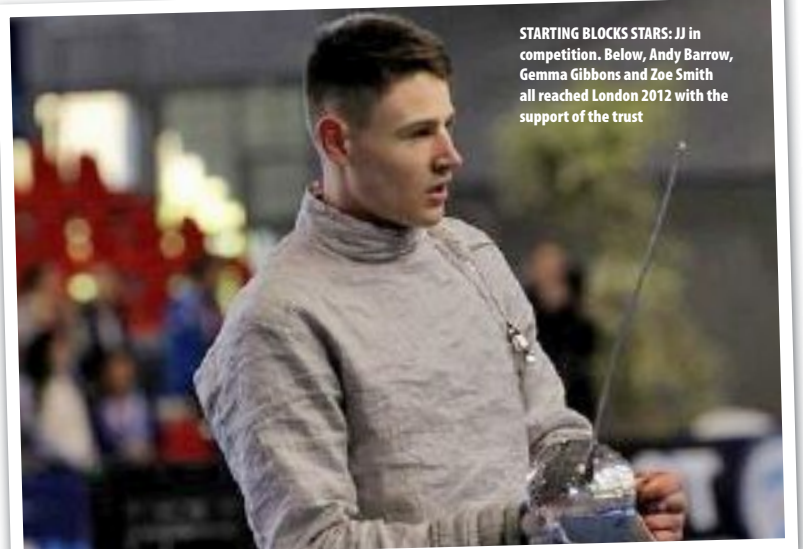

"The financial support has gone a long way in supporting him with kit and competitions. We are very proud that JJ has been given the honour of being an ambassador."

Cllr Chris Roberts, chair of the Starting Blocks Trust and the leader of Royal Greenwich, said: "These athletes were able to continue to work towards their Olympic and Paralympic goals thanks to Greenwich Starting Blocks bursaries at crucial times in their sporting development when alternative funding is not available.

"We intend to continue the important job of supporting local young athletes to prepare for their next challenges. Supporting them now means we can all share in their success in the future."

● GT readers can support Starting Blocks athletes by donating directly through Justgiving. The trust is also being supported by runners in the musical half marathon Run to the Beat on September 8. Corporate sponsors are also welcome and businesses interested in sponsoring should go to www.greenwichstartingblocks.org

New hotel booked for West Greenwich

WORK will begin in October on a 104-bedroom Travelodge in Greenwich, following a new development deal.

It will be part of The Movement, the development next to the Docklands Light Railway and the town's mainline station. It will include 181 flats, 358 student apartments for the University of Greenwich, a health and fitness club, a convenience food store, a nursery, a café and business start-up units covering 7,000 sq ft.

It is anticipated that The Movement will generate £275 million for the local economy over the next 10 years. The hotel is due to open in September 2014, bringing new revenue to the local economy and likely to provide new jobs for locals.

The deal includes an extension to the West Greenwich Community Centre, due to be completed in September. This will increase the venue's capacity to take another 250 people, at no cost to the royal borough.

Joint partners for the project, who have completed the deal with Travelodge, are the Cathedral Group and Development Securities.

Tony O'Brien, UK Development director for Travelodge Hotels, said: "We already have two other hotels in the borough, in Deptford and Woolwich, and both trade really well. This new hotel is fantastically located for Maritime Greenwich and is also great for getting into central London."

Council leads new drive to tackle sale of illicit tobacco

THE royal borough is leading a new campaign to crack down on counterfeit cigarettes.

It has joined joining forces with five other south London boroughs in a new fight against the sale of illicit tobacco.

Health and trading standard teams from the six local authorities are working together and hoping more councils will come on board.

The move follows a recent report which found that 22million illicit cigarettes with a street value of over £4.5million are sold each year by organised criminal gangs in just one of the boroughs.

The survey, which was commissioned earlier in the year by the six councils, polled more than 1,700 local smokers about their tobacco purchasing habits.

The key findings found that more than 73 per cent of those surveyed were offered illicit tobacco in the past year whilst 56 per cent admitted buying illicit tobacco in the last year.

Researchers also found that illicit cigarettes are available at an average price of £4 for a pack of 20, although the price was often below £3 if larger quantities were brought.

More than half of the illicit cigarettes were counterfeit and pose a fire risk in people's homes.

The results will be used to form new

by Hilary Bryan

enforcement and health strategies in dealing with illicit tobacco, which include creating specialist teams to inspect premises selling illegal tobacco and to prosecute more offenders.

The royal borough is also working with the fire brigade and police to deal with the criminality linked to the illicit tobacco trade.

Cllr Maureen O' Mara, the borough's cabinet member for community safety, said: "The sale of illicit tobacco has many damaging effects on our local communities and honest business owners."

"With the support of the five other local councils we hope to raise awareness about the grave dangers involved in its consumption and the criminal activities it is associated with."

Hazel Cheeseman, special projects advisor at Action on Smoking & Health (ASH) said: "We welcome the cross-borough, multi-agency approach to tackling illicit tobacco. Without concerted action at local, regional and national level illicit tobacco will continue to contribute to health inequalities and undermine the effectiveness of public health interventions."

major deal with the council and Ravensbourne university college for a digital hub.

Ravensbourne already attracts scores of companies to its business incubation programme. Digital entrepreneurs can use the college's technology facilities and work with the students to help them take new services and products to market. They include software and gaming companies, architecture and fashion.

Small firms specialising in digital expertise are operating from Mitre Passage next door, a council-managed building that offers a package of facilities and valuable opportunities to collaborate with established like-minded businesses.

The site is also home to Greenwich Digital Skills (GDS), a joint initiative with the council to provide vocational training, enterprise courses and community learning in design and digital media for local residents and small businesses.

Royal borough council leader Cllr Chris Roberts, said: "This festival is great news for the peninsula and for the borough as a whole. Europe's top innovators now see us as a place where important digital innovation happens and where businesses are keen to be located."

Hero paperboy rescues woman from house blaze

PROUD ACHIEVEMENT:
fifteen-year-old Joshua receives an award from Mayor of Greenwich, Cllr
Angela Cornforth

A TEENAGE hero rescued an elderly woman from her blazing house as he delivered the Sunday papers.

Fifteen-year-old paperboy Joshua Robertson saw smoke coming from the window of the Eltham property and heard the fire alarm going off, before he dashed inside to bring out the stricken pensioner.

"At the time I was scared and full of adrenaline but I felt the urge to do my best to help her," said the St Paul's Academy student. "I used the back of my hand to test if the door was hot, a technique I learned whilst training at Police Cadets."

He rapped the door of the Alderwood Road home and the distressed woman, who did not wish to be named,

by Simon Banks

eventually answered. The kitchen was in flames and black smoke clouded the inside of the house. The teenager tried to talk the women - who is in her 70s - out of her house, but disorientated and confused, she refused to exit.

"She was very shocked and distressed and as I rushed into the house I saw that the kitchen and parts of the floor were on fire," Joshua, from Eltham, said. "It seemed the fire had started from the toaster. I told the women she must leave the house right away, but she would not."

He left the house and notified neighbours, who raised the alarm. He quickly returned, and covering his face, Joshua charged into the house and finally convinced the fire victim to follow him to safety.

Joshua and the women were taken to the Queen Elizabeth hospital in Woolwich, where they were discharged later that day.

The hero - who is also head boy at his school - said skills learned at the Police Cadets and Duke of Edinburgh Awards along with those gained from volunteering at a care home in Abbey Wood had helped him remain calm.

He said: "Looking back I feel very happy and proud that I was able to save her life, because I believe she wouldn't have left the house without my help and I am very proud that I was able to help."

ROYAL borough of
GREENWICH

Carnival week marks Hindu temple jubilee

WOOLWICH will have its very own summer Hindu carnival when the Swaminarayan Temple in Plumstead marks its silver jubilee with a week of celebrations, events and festivities.

There will be a colourful grand 'Shobha Yatra' procession, a scriptural recital, a cultural exhibition, a traditional drama performance, a music show, a special ladies' night and a series of ancient Vedic rituals. The grand procession, with floats, music and cultural dances, starts at 1pm on Saturday, August 24, near the Woolwich Ferry on Powis Street. It will pass through Woolwich town centre and is due to arrive at the temple on St. Margaret's Grove around 4pm.

The occasion will be blessed by the presence of over 20 ascetic monks from India as well as the leader of the global Swaminarayan sect and direct descendant of Lord Swaminarayan, His Holiness Acharya Shree Koshalendraprasadji Maharaj.

Spokesman Manjula Rabadia said: "We are expecting to welcome thousands of people from all over the world to be part of this spectacular event, including high profile businessmen, celebrities and politicians." The temple is one of south east London's largest Hindu temples. It was opened in August 1988. More than 100 volunteers have been working for a year to organise the silver jubilee celebrations.

THERE'S a chance to have fun while learning new skills on summer holiday courses for all ages. GT called in at a few to see how youngsters were enjoying what's on offer.

YOUNG people are getting active and creative at a range of special summer schemes across the borough.

Youngsters were enjoying the great outdoors at part of the Summer Parks programme for eight to 18-year-olds. Events are being run in parks and green spaces across the borough until August 30.

GT called in at the Glyndon Estate green last Wednesday. Fifteen-year-old twins Reggie and Ronnie Jeffery were challenging each other on the bungee run, seeing how far they could get before being catapulted back to the start. Their verdict: "It's the best thing here".

Molly-Jane Parrin, 11, and her brothers Jack, 11, and Christian, five, and sister Carly, six, have been going along to the summer scheme for the last two Wednesdays. Molly told GT: "It's really good coming here and the bungee run is great."

HANDS UP WHO'S HAVING A GOOD TIME: Molly-Jane, Christian, Carly and Jack give a double high five to show they're having fun

The three Wood sisters, Lacie, 13, Katie, 11, and Ellie eight, were keeping fit with their hula-hoops. Lacie said: "I like everything here but the best things are in the van they bring round. It's got music, laptops and other things that we can use."

A free programme of activities got off to a flying start in the Charlton Triangle area with scores of young people joining up in the first few weeks.

They're developing their creative skills through a range of accredited and fun courses including graphic design, jewellery making and sewing.

Popular sessions include football with

Charlton Athletic, Tag Rugby with Blackheath Rugby Club, street dance, African dance and an under fives play scheme.

For teenagers there's a HD make up course where students can learn all the tricks for high definition stills and movie cameras, as well as a film production workshop.

The activities have been organised by Charlton Triangle Homes which manages a thousand homes in the area.

Sixteen-year-old Jenny Su, who was on the week-long HD Make Up course, said: "I have really enjoyed the course and I have learnt loads. Getting professional Cllr Jackie Smith, the royal borough's cabinet member for children's services, said: "Our summer holiday programmes are very popular with all ages and we are thrilled with the take up of the free activities on offer. It's a great way for children and young people to make new friends, learn new skills and enjoy new experiences."

OTHER activities taking place across the borough include:

- Summer activity camps: anyone aged between eight and 17 can take part in sports, DJ sessions, street dance and cookery at two activity camps taking place at Woolwich YMCA and James Wolfe School.
- Futureversity courses in everything from boxing and football coaching to money skills and creative business.
- Ravensbourne summer university with creative workshops in graphic design, AudioBoo recording, Ustream broadcasting and architecture for 14 to 19-year-olds.

History-themed arts and crafts

FREE drop-in arts and crafts are helping to keep youngsters busy on Saturday mornings throughout the summer.

Greenwich Heritage Centre is hosting the sessions from 10am – 12noon and 2pm – 4pm.

Activities and materials are suitable for those aged 4+ but accompanied younger children are welcome to join in. Parents/carers are responsible for supervising their children at all times.

The sessions are exploring the history of Greenwich using the beautiful Greenwich Millennium Embroideries!

They've already covered the Romans and the Vikings which saw youngsters creating mosaics and Viking weapons.

Sessions continue this Saturday August 17 when young visitors can make a Tudor crown;

August 24 when youngsters will look at how the Georgians travelled around Greenwich and

CLEVER SEW & SEWS: Candy Botchey and son, Jaden Edusei, 6, who had never sewn before, make a cloth bag make a mini sedan chair; and on August 31, they can create a carousel for a Victorian fair.

Health services up for award

THE royal borough is waiting to see if it's won a prestigious award next month. The council's public health services have been shortlisted for an HSJ Award for an innovative programme to improve the care of people with diabetes. Last month council health experts gave a presentation to the HSJ awards which recognises top level healthcare management.

The programme, jointly led by the council and Merck Sharp & Dohme (MSD) Ltd, helped to improve diabetes care and create efficiency savings.

Diabetes is a major cause of mortality and morbidity in the borough and a growing problem due to increasing levels of obesity. The programme helped to increase support for GP practices so that people with the disease are less likely to suffer the associated complications of diabetes such as heart attacks, stroke or kidney disease.

Church needs your memories for 60th year anniversary

Diamond lights

ALTARED STATE: a 'church within a church' was built at St Alfege's after it was bombed in WW2, (below)

ST Alfege's Church is celebrating 60 years since it was restored, and to mark the milestone it needs YOUR help on a new exhibition.

Were you married in the church? Maybe you used the crypt as an air-raid shelter during World War Two? Intriguingly, at one stage there was even a 'church within a church' at the building. Do you remember it? If local people have any pictures or memories the church would love to hear about them.

The Greenwich church's administrator, Jenny Bracey said: "We have already received memories and photographs from local residents regarding the restoration in 1953 however we would like more in order to create an exhibition."

"We have a quantity of photographs already but would be interested in your memories."

Jenny would particularly like to hear from any workmen or tradespeople who have worked on the Anglican parish church, for the display which begins on September 28 at the start of its celebration weekend.

As well as the photo exhibition, there will be a 1950s-style tea party and musical recitals.

On Saturday at 1pm Gerard Cousins plays guitar before the tea party gets underway. At 7.30pm it's the turn of Syzygy Saxophone.

It's an early start on Sunday September 29, with the all-age Harvest Festival service at 10am, before the diamond anniversary evensong with preacher Lord Harries of Pentregarth, the former Bishop of Oxford, at 6.30pm.

Entry to all events is free. The exhibition runs until October 7.

Free bike racks for employers

EMPLOYERS in the capital can apply for cycle racks free of charge, as part of a London-wide drive to get more people on their bikes.

Transport for London is offering the cycle stands to any employer with more than five employees.

There are three designs to choose from: Sheffield stands, 'toast racks' and vertical wall mounts.

Businesses can apply for stands for up to 40 bikes, depending on the number of staff on the books.

Employers are responsible for the installation once delivered by TfL, and must sign up to the Business Cycle scheme.

• To apply for the free stands, and for all Ts and Cs, go to: www.tfl.gov.uk/businessandpartners/22897.aspx or email TfLs_business_engagement_team_for_more_info@businessengagement@tfl.gov.uk

BIG, in tandem

BLIND Independence Greenwich is looking for volunteers to help with a cycle scheme it is launching later this year.

The charity needs sighted riders to pilot tandem - two-person - bikes on rides along the Thames.

The Tandem Club is set for a September start. A BIG spokesperson told GT: "We are hoping to organise a ride every other weekend."

• For more details on BIG, and to register interest, go to www.blindindependencegreenwich.org.uk or call 020 8853 2474.

A CYCLIST who's riding around the world stopped off in Woolwich for a bite to eat - before heading off to Japan.

Rinpo Yak, from Tibet, visited London on the European leg of his challenge, where he dropped in on his fellow countrymen at Kalish Momo on Woolwich New Road. He was given a slap-up meal and a good luck charm.

Rinpo told GT: "I met them on Facebook and they invited me to Woolwich. The food was delicious and they gave me a white scarf - a traditional Tibetan blessing." During his week in the capital (pictured above), he also took part in the RideLondon event. Rinpo began his tour of Europe in Brussels on March 17 and has since visited more than 150 towns in 13 countries. He said: "I decided to embark on a solitary cycling rally to appeal to the European Union to lend a proactive support to the young and ordinary Tibetans inside Tibet who are sacrificing their lives for freedom."

All's well that starts well...

WOOLWICH Dockyard was treated to a carnival when the Well London programme got under way earlier this month.

A talent showcase was held as part of the London-wide scheme, which aims to improve the well-being of local communities.

There were stalls and workshops at the Clockhouse Community Centre before the carnival parade by local dance troupe TARU.

A smooth-talking smoothie maker pulped fruit into refreshing drinks.

The capital-wide initiative works with local residents on improving health and well-being in their neighbourhoods by focusing on physical activity, open spaces, healthy eating and arts and culture.

A Well London stall gave visitors the opportunity to sign up to a seven-week health workshop which begins in September.

The next event is planned for Saturday September 7 at the Woolwich Dockyard Festival from 4pm onwards.

WELL Hall Pleasaunce hosts a family fun day on August 25.

The free event runs from 10am to 5pm, with craft stalls, Punch and Judy, bouncy castle, face painting and live bands in front of the Tudor Barn.

There's a bird of prey display and exotic animals, a BBQ and woodcraft demo.

Hosts wanted to help over 60s celebrate special day

BUSINESSES are being asked to provide special treats as part of boroughwide bash for the borough's senior citizens.

Sunday October 6 is Silver Sunday - a special day to celebrate the achievements and contributions that older people make to our society and the local economy.

The day is being coordinated by Age UK Bromley & Greenwich in partnership with the royal borough which is hosting key events in the town centres.

However, local businesses, and organisations are also being asked to give special offers or run events and activities throughout the day.

Shops, pubs and restaurants, could provide special discounts for older people while other venues are being encourage to offer free or reduced entry to over 60s.

Local people could run an activity such as a music performance, community meal, walk or exercise session or host a coffee morning for older people to attend.

The event will also support the campaign to challenge negative attitudes and outdated stereotypes of older people.

It follows the UK Older People's Day on October 1 which coincides with the UN International Day of Older Persons.

Cllr John Fahy, the royal borough's cabinet member for health, adults and older people said: "Silver Sunday provides an opportunity to celebrate the contribution made by older people to the life of the nation. I am delighted that the programme of

Places open at German school

PLACES are still available for five to ten-year-olds at a German Saturday school.

The school meets at Charlotte Turner School in Benbow Street, Greenwich, 10am-12pm during term time, and has 36 pupils, aged three to ten, in four classes. It's aimed at children in bi- or multi-lingual families and pupils have to understand German well enough to follow the lessons, which are conducted entirely in German.

The school was launched last year by Corinna Ilschner to help children from German speaking families practise and improve their German and widen their knowledge of the country's culture and traditions. It's run by parents as a not-for-profit organisation and gives children and their families an opportunity to meet and make friends with other German families.

16-18 Year olds:
What's next for your future?

JOB prospects can be daunting for young people leaving school. Many are at risk of – Not in Education, Employment or Training. One way to boost their career chances, apprentice and Greenwich Local Labour and Business (GLLaB), the council-sponsored agency, can help and advise them. Dick Townsend-Smith looks at what's on offer

The apprentice

DOORS of opportunity are opening for scores of young people who are working their way into employment through an apprenticeship.

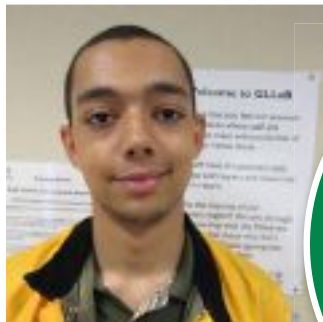

Many of them are being supported by GLLaB, the royal borough's jobs and training agency which staged a special event last Tuesday (August 6) to talk about council apprenticeship vacancies in housing business admin, health and social care, and facilities management. Nearly 70 apprentice hopefuls who live in the borough went along to the day at GLLaB's HQ at the Old Library in Calderwood, Street, Woolwich. There were four sessions, covering the different work areas followed by one-to-one interviews and tests in literacy and numeracy.

Shortlisted candidates will now be called for an interview to the council department they have applied to join. If successful, they will become apprentices with the London Apprenticeship Company, which works with the royal borough. They will then serve a one-year apprenticeship, and gain a Level 2 NVQ.

Among the apprentice candidates at the event was Jerusa Francisco, 18, from Greenwich. She said: "I want to work in housing because I want a job that helps people – and having a home helps people a lot! GLLaB helps people get apprenticeships, and they are really good because they text you to keep you up to date with what's happening. I'm hoping that I get a permanent job."

Former St Paul's Academy student James Beasley, 18, from Plumstead is keen on getting an apprenticeship in facilities management, which means he would provide support services such as catering and security, and possibly checking on safety and environmental regulations. He said: "I want to get some stability into my career and this is a good start. Looking to the future, I want to use my apprenticeship qualification to get a full-time job, and I'm keeping an open mind about what it is."

Bradley Hutchinson, 20, from Eltham is also keen to get an apprenticeship in facilities management. He said: "Long term, I'd like to have a stable job working for a good company, and I'd like to be able to move up through the ranks."

Cllr Denise Hyland, the royal borough's cabinet member for regeneration, enterprise and skills, said: "We are proud of the unique service that GLLaB provides in training and upskilling young people. That support helps them gain the skills and qualifications which place them in a better position to find full time employment."

POSITIONS OF PROMISE: young people get on-the-job training with different departments in the royal borough

Designers of the future get creative

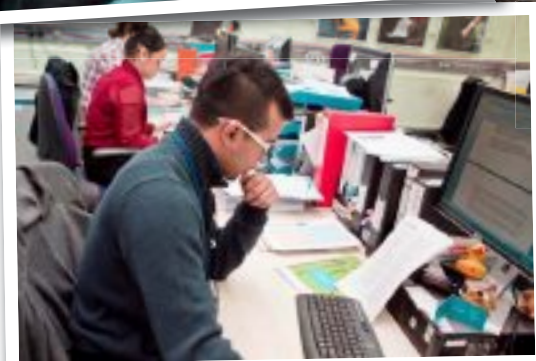

THE LATEST of a free six-day pre-apprenticeship course in digital media recently ended at Ravensbourne – the renowned digital and design university college on Greenwich Peninsula. Would-be apprentices got tips on getting into the industry, information on job opportunities and how to apply for them. Experts were on hand to help students identify their strengths and match them to what employers are looking for, and how succeed in an interview. The course was organised by Creative Process, an independent not-for-profit agency that has helped more than 300 people into apprenticeships and jobs in the digital media industry. It was the latest in a series of preparation courses for apprentices who go on to receive training in the digital skills while working in a real job for a real employer. Creative Process has new vacancies coming up every week. At the moment there are vacancies in the National Theatre, several digital design companies, two public relations agencies and a major cinema. Starting point

GLLaB has been running sessions especially for young people who want to know more about what being an apprentice is all about. More than 100 16 to 18-year-olds went on the two-week pre-apprenticeship programme at GLLaB's North Greenwich offices and at the Royal Arsenal, which covered interview techniques and how to go about finding firms which need apprentices. Easy to go hire

BUSINESSES are urged to create apprenticeships to give young people the chance to start a career. The royal borough is working with the London Apprenticeship Company to increase local apprenticeships. The LAC makes recruiting and employing an apprentice easy by offering two recruitment and management packages. Firms which hire an apprentice aged 16 to 18 can get training costs paid for by the government. Call 020 3651 4747 or email Tim.Ponsford@londonapprenticeship.co.uk

Comedy fest returns later this year

THE Greenwich Comedy Festival is set to return in late October as part of the Royal Greenwich Festivals.

Details of performers and venues are yet to be confirmed, but organisers promise "a host of shows and very special one-off performances from some of the country's very best performers".

There are also expected to be slots for up-and-coming funnymen and women as well as free events.

Previous performers at the festival - which had been staged in the grounds of the Old Royal Naval College - include Bill Bailey, Tim Minchin and Dylan Moran.

Councillor Peter Kotz, cabinet member for cultural and creative industries said: "The Greenwich Comedy Festival is a key part of the Royal Greenwich Festivals and has brought the very best in top class new and established performers to the borough in recent years."

Organiser, Cass Briggs said: "We are delighted to be back in Greenwich. We've got some great shows planned for this year and are already looking forward to carrying the name of the festival onwards in 2014."

Advice for the young at art

A THOUGHT-PROVOKING play which explores London through two of its worst periods comes to Greenwich Theatre later this year.

Advice For the Young at Heart is on at the Crooms Hill venue from October 1 to 3 and examines 2011's unrest against the background of the 1958 race riots, exploring themes of race, family and misguided loyalty.

It's by Roy Williams, and was commissioned and developed by Theatre Centre. It is performed by young actors from across the capital.

Roy Williams' many plays include the widely acclaimed Sucker Punch (Royal Court), nominated for the Laurence Olivier Award for Best New Play in 2010. Other plays include Absolute Beginners (Lyric Hammersmith), Sing Yer Heart Out for the Lads (National Theatre) and Clubland (Royal Court).

In AFTYaH, lead protagonist Candice is ordered by her gang-leading boyfriend to lure rival Clint into a honeytrap. Haunted by her grandfather's mistakes, she stands at a crossroads.

The show is touring the country to mark the theatre company's 60th anniversary.

In 2000 playwright Williams was joint winner of the George Devine Award and in 2001 he won the Evening Standard award for most promising playwright. He received an OBE for Services to Drama in the 2008 Birthday Honours List.

Oct 1-3, 7.30pm. Matinee shows on Oct 2 and 3. For more info about the play go to www.theatre-centre.co.uk or call 020 7729 3066

THE details of Michelangelo's payment for painting the Sistine Chapel are murky at best, though one thing we can be sure of is that he wasn't paid in bacon butties.

But that's exactly the fee charged by a renowned local painter who has been decorating the walls of a Charlton Park café.

Stuart Hughes has been airbrushing a mural of historic figures - including Cardinal Wolsey - on the Old Cottage Coffee Shop for the last two weeks, and told Scene: "They do some of the best bacon sandwiches I've ever tasted. Every morning when I'd walk past I'd be intoxicated by the aroma of frying bacon."

"I got talking to the owners, and when they found out I was an artist they said I could have all the bacon sandwiches I could eat if I painted a mural on the side of the building."

Stuart, who has just returned from a prestigious fresco painting competition in Venice, turned to Charlton's past for inspiration.

He said: "I did a couple of early designs, some with Charlton House, then I thought of historical figures - Henry VIII is very Greenwich, and people recognise him."

Transforming the café's south-facing wall into the battlements of a medieval castle, he first sketched the famous king in one window, before adding the cardinal, and finally Catherine of Aragon in the centre.

The artist, who also teaches part time at Cardwell primary school, does a sideline in airbrushing motorbikes with custom designs.

The 63-year-old struck up a friendship with 2004 Turner Prize-winner Jeremy Deller, after the Charlton man lent him a motorcycle helmet he had painted as a skull.

"The British Council has since bought a copy of it, which is now in Shanghai. How much did they pay for it? A bit..." he said. "Jeremy then invited me to the Venice Biennale, where we spent 10 weeks painting. I created a giant mural of Roman Abramovich's yacht being thrown into the sea. Jeremy said that I'd end up in the canal if Roman ever saw it!"

Coincidentally, Stuart had previously decorated a motorbike for the oligarch's wife, for a ballerina as a present.

"It was painted with the Russian flag," he said. "It looked really beautiful."

The Old Cottage café is run by Mimi Speak and her partner Michael Lauricourt. They took it over 14 months ago. Michael said: "Mimi works seven days a week – she's the brains of the business. We're trying to promote Charlton and the talent there is here. The idea with Stuart is that we promote each other's business."

The eatery, just off the Charlton Park Road side, already has a photography group, and Stuart is planning to run a watercolour painting class from the café on Saturdays.

He said: "It's going to be bacon sandwiches for life – that's my price! I walked in here one morning expecting it to be a sort of 'Joe's Café' but it has a really lovely atmosphere."

Michael added: "We source all our meat locally and use thick-cut bacon in our butties, and Mimi bakes all our cakes."

LET'S DANCE: young people from the group perform on stage

Young peep's theatre to-do this summer

GREENWICH & Lewisham Young People's Theatre has a host of workshops and activities on offer this summer holiday.

There's the chance to find out how films are made, what it feels like in a radio studio, and to have a go at dancing like they do in music videos.

Behind the doors of The Tramshed, Woolwich, groups of young directors, actors, dancers, radio presenters, rappers and poets are all coming together to share their talents with young theatre lovers.

For the first two weeks of August GLYPT is working with Futureversity to deliver workshops for 10 to 25-year-olds. GLYPT's artist director, Jeremy James, will be running a masterclass for aspiring young actors aged 16-25 who are interested in working in the arts.

A young drama participant at last year's FV said: "I enjoyed working with other people and coming up with ideas and it was fun working with the tutors."

Then, in partnership with Stepz Dance the week of August 26, there's three days of fun and energetic dance classes to learn street dance skills, create routines and perform with new friends. There will be three different groups to suit ages from five to 19-year-olds of all abilities.

GLYPT will also be working in partnership with Oxleas NHS Trust this summer to run a radio project. Young people will get to create their very own radio show, and share their views on local NHS services in a project which aims to give young people more say in their everyday lives.

For those who are away for the summer, GLYPT runs regular courses at the Tramshed, as well as in the Downham and Bellingham areas. The new term will start in mid-September, for tots as young as two years and young people up to age 25. They also run supportive groups for vulnerable young people and those with moderate learning difficulties.

And for over 25s there are zumba, yoga and pilates classes for adults to have fun and keep fit.

For more information and to sign up, contact GLYPT's office on 020 8854 1316, visit www.glypt.co.uk or email info@glypt.co.uk

Dino discussion

THE Royal Observatory osts a talk on the plight of the dinosaurs later this month.

Palaeontologist Dr David W E Hone, of the School of Biological and Chemical Sciences at Queen Mary, University of London, presents Planet of the Dinosaurs on August 22. He'll be exploring how a disaster from space may have changed our world for ever. For ages 11+.

GREENWICH HERITAGE CENTRE

Women's Suffrage

Until Aug 31

AN exhibition on the Suffragette movement was launched at a special late night opening. Freedom of Spirit: Women's Suffrage, was unveiled at the Greenwich Heritage Centre on July 31, and runs through this month.

The evening, at the museum on the Woolwich Arsenal, also saw the launch of a publication linked to the exhibition published by University of Greenwich. The book is now available to buy, along with a new range of prints depicting scenes from the Royal Arsenal, in the museum shop.

At the Museum Late session, visitors sipped cocktails and gorged on cupcakes in the Suffragette colours of purple and green. The Woolwich Singers (pictured) performed 'She Works at Woolwich Arsenal Now', a musical standard from the early 1900s, described as a 'munitions workers romance'. The audience joined in the rousing chorus.

On at the Heritage Centre until Aug 31. Tues-Sat 9-5pm More info at www.greenwichheritage.org or 020 8854 2452

Greenwich Carers Centre's 'Adult Carers Service' supports adults who are living at home caring for either: a partner, parent, child, sibling, other family member or friend who, because of old age, long term illness or disability, cannot manage alone.

We are currently expanding our service and are looking for enthusiastic and committed individuals to fill the posts of:

Adult Carer Support Officer
Adult Carer Assessment Officer
Personal Support Planner

Greenwich Carers Centre strives to be an equal opportunities employer and we welcome applications from all sections of the community. We value our staff and offer on-going training and support as well as the opportunity to work as an integral member of a supportive and motivated team.

The closing date for completed applications for all posts is: 5pm on 8th September 2013

Interviews will be held on either Wednesday 25th or Saturday 28th September

For an application pack or further information about any of these posts please email: sue.mitchell@greenwichcarerscentre.org quoting the relevant job title. (Please note we do not accept stand-alone CVs and require the completion of a Greenwich Carers Centre application form)

Any offer of employment to these posts will be subject to a satisfactory DBS disclosure.

Carers Support Officer (2 posts)

Salary: £10,920 per annum – 21 hours per week (some evenings and weekends)

Salary: £ 8,290 per annum – 16 hours per week (some evenings and weekends)

As a GCC adult carers support officer you will work with adult carers (and sometimes those they care for) by carrying out a range of valued tasks including:

- Giving carers Information and Advice
- Making regular contact with carers to see if they require help
- Liaising with social care and health professionals on behalf of carers
- Helping to organise and facilitate group social activities and peer group sessions
- Holding 'drop in' advice sessions in local places of interest
- Helping carers to complete forms (such as grant application forms) and write letters
- Contributing to researching, writing and distributing our quarterly carers newsletter
- Facilitating on line social discussion groups and participating in the centre's social networking sites

The successful applicants will demonstrate that they respect and value people and have a passion for enabling others to achieve.

Skills required are:

- Exceptional Communication skills (ability to speak and write clearly and plainly in English and possibly another language)
- Exceptional Listening Skills
- Ability to work with a range of individuals
- Ability to fill in forms
- Ability to research available services/facilities
- Ability to use a range of social media applications
- Ability to use Microsoft outlook, excel and word
- Ability to work to deadlines
- Ability to work within strict confidentiality, safety and risk guidelines

Carers Assessment Officer

Salary: from £8,280 per annum – 16 hours per week minimum (some evenings and weekends)

As a GCC Carers Assessment Officer your primary responsibility is to work with adult carers to help them identify how caring may be affecting their lives and to then offer them support, by providing information and advice and signposting or referring to other relevant services.

The successful applicant will demonstrate that they respect and value people, have a passion for enabling others to achieve and have (or can gain) a good sound knowledge of the needs of carers and relevant available services and facilities.

Skills required are:

- Exceptional communication skills (ability to speak and write clearly and plainly in English and possibly another language)
- Exceptional listening skills
- Ability to work with a range of individuals
- Ability to research available services/facilities
- Ability to write plainly and clearly and fill in forms
- Ability to work to deadlines
- Ability to work within safety and risk guidelines
- Ability to complete electronic records and prepare reports if required

Personal Support Planner

Salary: from £8,320 per annum – 16 hours per week minimum (some evenings and weekends)

As a Personal Support Planner you will work with a range of vulnerable adults and their families by visiting them at their homes and assisting them to write and cost a 'support plan' that will meet their support needs.

The successful applicant will demonstrate that they respect and value people, have a passion for enabling others to achieve, have (or can gain) a good sound knowledge of the Greenwich area and its services/facilities and possess a practical yet inventive way of thinking - so as to get the most out of life on a budget.

Skills required are:

- Exceptional Communication Skills (ability to speak and write clearly and plainly in English and possibly another language)
- Exceptional Listening Skills
- Ability to think laterally about problem solving
- Ability to do basic arithmetic: such as addition, subtraction, multiplication and division
- Ability to organise a weekly 'day to day living' budget
- Ability to research available services/facilities
- Ability to fill in forms
- Ability to work to deadlines
- Ability to work within safety and risk guidelines

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Edition 352

BIDDING FOR PROPERTIES

We are always looking to improve the service we provide.
We have now made some changes to the way we advertise properties.

People on the Housing register are able to bid for all properties, regardless of their banding. You must be eligible for the size of property and bids will be considered in the following order:

First Band A, followed by Band B both in priority date order.
Those in Band C will then be considered in registration date order.

Please note that there will still be some properties with age restrictions so only people of this age group can apply for these.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme.
If you're not, register an application on line at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website:

www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free at either The Eltham or Woolwich Centre or a local library.

Apply in one of two ways

- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Royal Borough of Greenwich's website
www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

The next edition of GreenwichHomes will be available on Wednesday 21 August 2013 at midday and will include any Housing Association properties when available. Closing date for all applications for this issue is midnight on Sunday 18 August 2013.

Small is beautiful Under Occupation scheme

If you are living in a Council property that is too big for you, we can help you to move to somewhere smaller. The Council will pay your removal costs, and £350 for each bedroom gained.

To join the scheme you must be willing to move to a home with two bedrooms less than you have now:

- 3 bedroom to a 1 bedroom home
- 3 bedroom parlour/4 bedroom to a 1 or 2 bedroom home
- 5 bedroom to a 3 bedroom (or smaller) home

MOVES ACROSS LONDON

The housingmoves scheme is run by the Greater London Authority and is aimed at social housing tenants who want to move from one part of London to another.

Priority is given to people who:

- have more bedrooms than they currently need
- want to move to be closer to employment or higher education
- need to provide care for family members or friends.

Tenants must have a clear rent account and no on-going record of anti-social behaviour.

Royal borough tenants can register on the scheme and bid for council or housing association property in other parts of London. To register your interest please visit: www.housingmoves.org

50 weeks a year and is delivered to all residents. GreenwichHome adverts are included in every issue.

It's so far from humdrum

THERE was no trouble drummin' up support for the latest event in the summer family festival in General Gordon Square. Youngsters were keen to beat it in a drum workshop (right) which was part of a day of African-themed activities. There was mask-making and juggling and arts and crafts alongside inflatables and fairground rides. The day on August 3 was the latest of family entertainment in the square organised by the royal borough to attract more people into the town centre. Last Sunday the square was due to host Asian themed events including Punjabi singing group Ranj Jago Giddha (left) as part of the Woolwich Asian Festival. ● Full details of events in the square at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/whatsonevents

ROYAL BOROUGH OF GREENWICH ROAD TRAFFIC REGULATION ACT 1984 – SECTION 14(1) TEMPORARY ROAD CLOSURE – PEARTREE WAY

1. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Council of the Royal Borough of Greenwich has made an Order to accommodate carriageway works in a section of Peartree Way. The effect of the Order will be to temporarily prohibit vehicles from entering, exiting, proceeding or waiting (including waiting for the purposes of loading or unloading) in Peartree Way, from a point 180 metres north of the northern kerb-line of West Parkside to the northern extremity of Peartree Way.
2. The above restrictions will only apply at such times and to such extent as shall be indicated by the placing of the appropriate traffic signs. Vehicular access to premises affected by these works will be maintained whenever possible subject to the extent and operations of the works.
3. Whilst the closure is in operation, affected traffic should follow local diversions as indicated by traffic signs.
4. The Order will come into force on 13th August 2013 and will continue in force for up to 18 months, or until the works have been completed, whichever is the sooner.
5. Queries concerning these works should be directed to the Royal Borough of Greenwich's Directorate of Regeneration, Enterprise & Skills on 020 8921 5473.

World Championships inspire local athletic stars for club contest

MEMBERS of the Cambridge Harriers are being inspired by this week's World Athletic Championships in Moscow as they prepare for their own competition next month.

The track and field stars, who compete at Sutcliffe Park in Eltham, are now in training for their championships on Sunday, September 8.

The Harriers' development officer, Mick Bond, said: "Members are seeing what's happening in the Moscow championships at the moment, and that can only inspire them as they prepare for ours."

The club already has an impressive line-up of track and field stars. Competing in Moscow is Jessica Judd, who is running the 800m. Hard on her heels is fourteen-year-old Sabrina Sinha, who just missed beating Jessica's championship best at the recent National Schools Championships, proving she has the potential to follow in Jessica's footsteps.

Other club success stories include Tobi Adeniyi from Thamesmead, who won the National Schools title with a leap of 7.36m in the long jump, while former club member and ex-Woolwich Poly schoolboy David Bolarinwa lined up against Usain Bolt in the 200m at the recent Diamond League meeting in Oslo.

Events on September 8 include sprint and middle distance running, javelin, high, long and triple jump, discus, shot put and hammer. There are also mixed 4x100m team relays for parents, children, coaches and athletes. Newcomers are invited to coaching sessions between 11.30am and 1pm. The club has more than 150 junior members but always has room for more. Contact Mick at mickbond2020@ntlworld.com for more information.

● Sutcliffe Park was a winner in the borough's Olympic Legacy programme, with work on multi-sports facilities and all-weather facilities now underway.
